General

A Fund's investments will be limited to investments permitted by the Regulations.

A Fund may also invest in Short-Term Instruments, unlisted securities and convertible debt instruments in accordance with the investment strategies and restrictions set out in the section of the Prospectus titled "General Investment Strategies and Restrictions". A Fund may invest up to 10% of its Net Asset Value in units or shares of open-ended collective investment schemes within the meaning of Regulation 68 of the Regulations.

A Fund may use financial derivative instruments for efficient portfolio management purposes and/or for investment purposes in accordance with its own investment strategies as set out in the Prospectus.

	A Fund may engage in currency hedging transactions for the purpose of hedging against exchange risk within the limits set forth by the Central Bank. A Fund may engage in stocklending within the limits specified by the Central Bank.
Risk Profile:	The following risk factors apply to the Funds: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The value of Shares may fall as well as rise and investors may not receive back the full amount invested. There can be no assurance that any Fund will achieve its investment objective. - The Company’s investments may be acquired in a wide range of currencies and changes in exchange rates between currencies may cause the value of an investment in the Company to fluctuate. - A Fund will be exposed to a credit risk on parties with whom it trades and will also bear the risk of settlement default. - There can be no assurance that should an action be brought against the Company in the courts of another jurisdiction, the segregated nature of the Funds would necessarily be upheld. - Fixed Income Securities and Instruments and Credit Securities and Instruments are subject to both actual and perceived indications of creditworthiness. The “downgrading” of a rated debt security/instrument or adverse publicity coupled with investor perception can decrease the value and liquidity of such securities/instruments. A Fund investing in Fixed Income Securities and Instruments and/or Credit Income Securities and Instruments can also be affected by changes in prevailing interest rates and by considerations of credit quality. - For those Funds that invest in small capitalisation stocks and there may be a less liquid market in these stocks than in the case of large and mid capitalisation stocks and the stock market price of these stocks may be more volatile than large capitalisation stocks and somewhat more speculative. - Funds invested in a specific economic sector may experience higher volatility than investments diversified across a range of securities from differing economic sectors. - Some Funds may invest more than 20% of its Net Asset Value in Emerging Markets. Emerging Markets are typically those of less developed countries which exhibit lower levels of economic and/or capital market development, and higher levels of share price and currency volatility. Funds that have a significant exposure to Emerging Markets may only be suitable for well-informed investors. - Financial derivative instruments (“FDI”) involve risks different from and in certain cases greater than, the risks presented by more traditional investments. Each Fund may enter transactions in OTC markets that expose it to the credit of its counterparties and their ability to satisfy the terms of such contracts. Since many FDIs have a leverage component, adverse changes in the value or level of the underlying asset, rate or index can result in a loss substantially greater than the amount invested in the derivative itself. Certain FDIs have the potential for unlimited loss regardless of the size of the initial investment. - A Fund may from time to time use both exchange-traded and over the counter futures and options as part of their investment strategy or for hedging purposes. These

	instruments are highly volatile, involve certain special risks and expose investors to a high risk of loss. The low initial margin deposits normally required to establish a futures position permit a high degree of leverage. As a result, a relatively small movement in the price of a futures contract may result in a profit or a loss which is high in proportion to the amount of funds actually placed as initial margin and may result in un-quantifiable further loss exceeding any margin deposited. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - It should also be noted that as Euro Credit, Europe High Dividend Equity, Global Focus Equity, Global High Dividend Equity and US High Dividend Equity charge fees and expenses to capital rather than income, there is an increased risk that investors in those Funds may not receive back the full amount invested when redeeming their holding. - Dynamic Assets may be indirectly exposed to commodities through investment in Exchange Traded Commodities as such securities are designed to reflect the performance of an underlying commodity or basket of commodities. - Russell Fundamental Emerging Markets Index Fund may hold constituent securities of the Index regardless of the current or projected performance of a specific security or a particular industry or market sector. Maintaining investments in securities regardless of market conditions or the performance of individual securities could cause the Fund's return to be lower than if the Fund employed an active investment strategy. A more detailed description of the risk factors that apply to the Funds is set out in the Prospectus.
